

The Center for Public Safety Excellence (CPSE),
The Commission on Fire Accreditation International (CFAI),
The Commission on Professional Credentialing (CPC)
and the Toledo Fire and Rescue Department invite you to the following initial meeting:

Formation of the Michigan-Ohio-Indiana CPSE Consortium May 14, 2015, at 1 PM

Membership is open for agencies or individuals already accredited or credentialed, as well as those looking to begin the process of accreditation or professional credentialing. You need not be in the process yet! Consortia provide effective networking opportunities, and are an excellent resource to engage the quality improvement process, get answers, and be successful. CPSE promotes continuous quality improvement in fire and emergency service agencies worldwide.

CPSE, through the individual commissions, provides numerous programs. In addition to accreditation for fire and emergency service agencies, there are professional designations for officers at all levels. Agency accreditation provides a well-defined, internationally recognized framework for evaluating the delivery of fire and emergency services in any and all communities. Professional designations that enhances individual professional development include; Chief Fire Officer (CFO), Chief EMS Officer (CEMSO), Chief Training Officer (CTO), Fire Marshall (FM), and Fire Officer (FO).
